

Come, Sit...Stay!

At these hotels, your pets will be completely welcome—and very well fed.

AUSTIN

W Austin Hotel

Your pup will get dog treats at turndown service here, but if that's not enough, the hotel offers 24-hour room service that includes grilled Niman Ranch ground beef. Dogs also get complimentary peanut butter yogurt ice cream at Trace, the hotel's restaurant. If you're traveling with a feline friend, the W will set up your room with treats, toys and a litter box. From $329; whotelaustin.com

ASHEVILLE, NC

Aloft Asheville Downtown

This hotel provides everything a dog owner needs for the night—a dog bed, food and water bowls and a treat—but you don't even need to own a dog: You can request to hang out with local rescue dogs from Charlie's Angels Animal Shelter. Just take note: All the dogs are available for adoption, so you might end up wanting to take one home. From $159; aloftashevilledowntown.com

The Benjamin

Rooms have two mini bars: one for you and one for your furry companion. The dog version comes stocked with nonalcoholic Bowser Beer and all-natural treats from Bocce's Bakery. The hotel also partners with the subscription service BarkBox, which delivers toys and goodies for dogs or cats. From $299; thebenjamin.com

Loews New Orleans Hotel

The executive chef at this hotel, Meg Bickford, teamed up with a local veterinarian to devise a pet-friendly room service menu that features seared Gulf fish for cats and ground beef with egg whites and rice for dogs. Not to worry if your pet wanders off looking for more treats: The hotel gives every guest pet a name tag for their collar when they check in. From $219; loewshotels.com

Kimpton Hotel Monaco Portland

This hotel is so committed to welcoming animals, it keeps a director of pet relations on staff: a golden retriever named Dakota. Dogs are welcome at a daily happy hour in the lobby that offers wine and beer for humans and biscuits for the four-legged guests. You can also order a dog-friendly "beer" and get a basket of treats (for dogs or cats) at check-in. From $229; monaco-portland.com

The James Chicago

Animals visiting this Windy City hotel should come hungry: Aside from getting free organic treats at check-in, pets can eat from a special "chow" menu at the hotel restaurant Primehouse that includes grilled filet tips and roasted chicken breast, plus poached shrimp cocktail for cats. Plush dog beds, water bowls, leashes, collars and cool toys are also available. From $179; jameshotels.com

THE BENJAMIN: CHERYL ZIBISKY; THE JAMES CHICAGO: SOPHIE GAMAND