

Good Eyes!

Ree's daughter models four great eyeliner looks.

Ree's 18-year-old daughter Paige is the spitting image of her mom—and she inherited Ree's love of eyeliner, too. In fact, after years of practicing on friends—and on her mom—and watching how-to videos on Instagram, the home-schooled high school senior has become something of a makeup artist. Paige is partial to simple winged liner, but on the next page she shows us four different styles. All of them are easy to re-create—you just need a steady hand!

Everyday eye

Make this your go-to weekday look. Line your entire eye with a thin kohl or gel pencil in black, brown or gray, then gently smudge the line with a cotton swab or small eyeshadow brush. If you want an even softer look, use eyeshadow and an angled brush in place of liner, suggests Maybelline makeup artist Grace Lee.

Winged eye

This look is dramatic without being over-the-top. Your best bet is to use a liquid liner pen with a precise tip. Start at the inner corner of your eye and draw short strokes along the upper lash line. When you reach the outer corner of your eye, extend the line upward and outward at a diagonal to create a wing.

Cat eye

Here's how to look like a 1950s movie star! Using a gel eyeliner and fine brush, place a dot to the side of each eye to indicate where the line should end. Draw a straight line from the outer corner of your eye to the dot, then a second line from the dot to the middle of your upper lash line. Fill in the triangular space, then line the rest of your eye.

Smoky eye

Try this look when you really want to glam it up. Apply a generous swipe of black or dark gray liner to your top and bottom lash lines. Using a cotton swab or small eyeshadow brush, gently smudge and blend the liner to create a smoky effect.

Tip
Which color to use? Eyeliner should never be lighter than the color of your eyes, says Ree's makeup-artist friend Chelsey Cobbs.
