The Complete Package

TREAT THE FOODIES IN YOUR LIFE TO A GOURMET BASKET OF EDIBLE GIFTS.

BY ALEXANDRA LESHNER

Carlino's Specialty Foods

This family-run company, now in its third generation of owners, has deep roots in Abruzzo, Italy. There are gourmet gifts aplenty here, with themes to fit every occasion. In the store's signature wooden gift boxes, you'll find artisanal pastas, homemade cookies, and other Italian specialties.

give the best gift this holiday season, a box of Rastelli Direct's delicious Black Angus steaks is sure to have your recipient's mouth watering," says Lauren Rastelli, director of marketing and events for the Swedesboro, New Jersey-based company. "Our website makes it easy to send as many gifts as you need with one quick transaction. It's the gift that won't need to be returned this holiday season." 877-686-3276; rastelli direct.com

Di Bruno Bros.

You can't go wrong with any of the gift sets wrapped by this citywide favorite. The Abbondanza Gift Box—complete with Mediterranean-inspired snacks like roasted red peppers, biscotti, and house-aged Asiago—and the fully stocked Cheesebox Grandioso are among the Di Bruno Bros. best sellers. 1730 Chestnut St., 215-665-9220; dibruno.com

Sam's Italian Market & Bakery

For more than half a century, this has been suburbanites' go-to for authentic Italian food and groceries. With a deli, bakery, butcher shop, kitchen, and market under one roof—serving up favorites like manicotti and Italian rum cake—you'll find everything you need to put together an unforgettable gift basket. 3504 W.
